

How to Be a Successful Team: Project Leader

Length: 2 Days

Summary: Project managers must be able to assess situations quickly and accurately to maximize project resources and minimize project threats, this course will present the competencies needed to apply project leadership to create the positive project environment.

Do you have the tools to provide project leadership? This course will provide you with the needed information to answer that question.

Who should attend: All project personnel would benefit by attending this class, especially project personnel who desire excellence in leading project resources.

What you will achieve:

- Learn methods of demonstrating appropriate project leadership skills to all types of resources
- Methods of motivational strategies to keep a positive project dynamic
- How project leadership is viewed and assessed by the project stakeholder community
- How to incorporate leadership in your project's change management processes
- How your style of project leadership effects project resources and project success
- The power of the project alignment, a vision of success that is formulated with the stakeholder/sponsor expectations of project success
- How integrated project teams interact with and create successful strategies for project success

What you will learn:

- Theories and applications of project leadership styles
- Methods of successful motivation techniques of project human resources
- How to lead effective project teams and negotiate with project stakeholders
- Project leadership is based upon strong project ethics
- Change management and negotiation is effected by project leadership
- What is your communication style and how it impacts your leadership ability
- Develop an project vision and inspire commitment to the vision, shaping project success
- Build and sustain a high-performance project teams by aligning project management strategies

COURSE CONTENT

- Course introduction
- Ground rules and attendee introductions
- Introduction to project management leadership
- Define project management
- Establish pm critical success factors
- Examine good project management
- Leadership characteristics for project managers
- Effective project leadership qualities and theories
- Implications of work place behaviors of all team members
- Leadership assessment
- All course attendees are present with an established tool design to determine their project leadership characteristics
- Interpersonal communications based upon leadership style
- What is communication?
- The spoken word vs. The written word
- Choosing the medium for your message
- Communicating with credibility
- Having difficult conversations
- Communication breakdowns
- Leadership in the project environment
- Project leadership aligned to PMI's PMBOK and DOD framework
- Delegation of work and instructions